Petticoat Rebellion: The Anna Parnell Story Patricia Groves

In the late nineteenth century, a group of respectable ladies operated outside the law to fight for the rights of the landless poor in Ireland. These women were feared by both the British government and Irish Republicans. They were considered too militant, even by the militants, and because they were women, even the law couldn't stop them. They were the Ladies' Land League, founded in January 1881 by Miss Anna Stewart Parnell. "In her brilliant and compellingly written study, Patricia Groves has restored to Irish history the life and work of a singular Irish Patriot."--Irish Voice
