Excerpt from Recollections of a Service of Three Years During the War-of-Extermination in the Republics of Venezuela and Colombia, Vol. 1 of 2

IN presuming to offer the following volumes to the notice of the public, it is simply intended to convey a proper idea of a conflict which, in all the Combined contingencies and horrors of intestine commotion, has seldom been equalled, and never exceeded. The struggle is now over; and it is gratifying to know, that although it has been attended with terrible severity, and its object purchased dearly, it has been crowned, so far as regards independence of Spain, with the most complete success. The torrents of patriotic blood which have stained the soil of Colombia have not been shed in vain; Liberty has reared its standard triumphantly and lastingly on the shores of Southern America; and there is now little doubt, if the affairs of the various Republics be conducted with.
